April 5th 2019: L.A. Unified School District
Recognized by U.S. Dept. of Energy

On March 26, the U.S. Department of Energy's (DOE) Better Buildings Challenge visited Los Angeles Unified School District (LAUSD)'s Showcase Project Santee Education Complex, to recognize LAUSD for the energy productivity advances made in its schools. Better Buildings Partner LAUSD opened the 338,000-square-foot Santee Education Complex in July 2005 as the first new four-year high school for the Los Angeles Unified School District in more than 35 years. Santee is on schedule to achieve 30% annual energy savings this year. As a result of these upgrades, the school expects to achieve a 23% annual
